

Digital document management from nexi

Reliable and secure

All advantages of digital processes for your document management: archiving and reliable administration of receipts, automatic search via web portal and increased security of customer and receipt data.

Digital document management means the ability to electronically archive and manage merchant receipts. The signature is captured on the display of the terminal, inserted digitally on the merchant's receipt and then saved as part of the electronic receipt archive. If needed, the receipts can be viewed in the web portal and used for subsequent processes. You are assured of significant cost and process advantages compared to paper receipts. The receipts are automatically deleted after 18 months. So you always have an overview of the credit card transactions conducted by your business and branches. If the bank account statement is processed electronically, these references help to automatically settle outstanding items.
